Re: Further notes on reconstruction

I previously included a number of plots showing the reconstruction results from run 270.   I note here that the data processing that was done included the so called 'Carl Processing' that I discussed previously in the Doc DB note 387.   I have applied this same processing to the data in run 270 before running the new version of the reconstruction program, with 20,10 as the parameters.

The plots carl_R270e2.ps shows plots from the lower and upper sets of wires from each of the planes both before and after processing.   (Run 270 event 2)
